Local Designer &amp; Mature Themes Long has Rosewood Manor stood upon the cliff above the town of Ashenfall. ... (view more/less) <input type="checkbox"/> For centuries the manor has passed from one master to another falling further and further into disrepair. That is until the current master of the manor, Lord Xalvador Shadowbrook, spent a vast fortune on it's restoration. Once the repairs were complete and permanent staff hired, things turned horribly wrong. Anyone who spent the night at the manor disappeared without a trace. Adventurers have attempted to solve this mystery only for them to never be seen again. There is now a standing contract from Lord Shadowbrook for anyone who can "survive" the night in the

manor, rewarding 1000gp to each person who is still present the following morning.---Rosewood Manor is a 5th level module by DM Lytha for 3-6 players and should take around 3 hours to complete Please create a level 5 character, using Point buy or Standard array for skills and Max HP for level 1. You will then get the average for the remaining levels. Starting equipment + 1 uncommon magic item +200g for non-magical equipment or healing potions. Everything from Wizards of the Coast 2014 is allowed for character creation. You will have access to our compendium with every modules to create your character.

Fri 6:30-8:25pm	Magic, Myth, and Mystery 📍	RPG	3 available	C01	Ryan Clement
Local Designer For centuries, humanity waged a hidden war against the creatures of legends that lurked in the shadows. Then the unthinkable happened. Peace. Now the good (mostly) people of the Organization of Magic, Myth, and Mystery work to preserve this truce. Or at least not make things worse. Magic, Myth, and Mystery is a card-based RPG where you play as a character that is human, supernatural, or somewhere in-between, travelling the world(s), stopping rampaging mythological beasts, solving arcane mystical puzzles, confronting illegal sorcery, navigating office politics, and of course managing social media. Play your cards right, and you might just save the world... or at least keep your job.

Fri 6:30-8:25pm	RWBY: Combat Ready 😊	Cardgame	Full	G04	Ben
Family Friendly            RWBY: Combat Ready is an exciting cooperative game for 2-4 players, with adapted rules for 5 players . It captures the flavor and excitement of the animated web series RWBY from Rooster Teeth, with fast-paced battles, where all players are actively involved and engaged at the same time. Players play as one of the team members of

RWBY or JNPR. Each of them have their own separate deck of cards, representing their attacks, actions, and moves. Each character plays a little differently, using their own unique tactics and strategies. Players record their key stats on their Scrolls (player tracking boards), including their Aura (health), Experience, Battle Fury, and their Semblance (unique special ability).

Fri 6:30-8:25pm	Tend 😊	Boardgame	1 available	G54	Kevin Brouwer
Family Friendly Tend is a "flip and write" game where players are each building up their own farm and collecting the greatest selection of goods. Newcomers welcome! Ages 13+. We'll play with me and my wife (5p total).
Fri 6:30-7:25pm	The Bloody Inn 😊	Boardgame	Full	G05	Bradley Smith
Family Friendly This is a excellent card game with a very tongue-in-cheek theme: We are all innkeepers making a living by having people pay for the privilege of staying at the inn. It's a meager living but someone has got to do it. But ... hear me out ... looks over shoulder ... What if ... what if we killed the guests and raided their pockets? There's way more money in that! And if the police show up? ... I guess we'll have to kill them and raid their pockets too! From BGG: France 1831: In a remote corner of Ardèche, the little village of Peyrebeille sees numerous travelers pass through. A family of greedy rural farmers is determined to make its fortune and has devised a diabolical stratagem to achieve this goal: Invest in an inn so they can rob traveling guests, getting rich without arousing the suspicions of the police! Whether or not their plan will work out, one thing is certain: Not every guest will leave this inn alive. The Bloody Inn is a card game in which you play one member of a family of greedy, murderous innkeepers. At the start of each round, cards are placed face up to fill the inn with guests. Each card carries a cost representing how many cards a player must discard from her hand in order to take an action related to that card. Certain guests have an affinity for particular actions, so those cards return to a player's hand after being discarded. Cards also show how much money, in francs, each guest possesses. A round has two phases in which players take one action each, in turn order. Players choose one of the following actions:

bribe a guest into becoming an accomplice (take a card from the inn to their hand)

build an annex (move a card from their hand to their player area; it now represents a structure under which a victim may be buried) kill a guest (move a card from the inn to their player area, awaiting burial)

bury a victim (place an unburied victim card under an annex card and take the money from the victim's pockets)

launder money (players may only have a certain amount of cash on hand; excess must be converted to 10F checks by the local notary)

At the end of the round, if any room of the inn contains one of the police, then they conduct an investigation; if a player has any unburied victims, then he must pay 10F per victim to the local gravedigger to hurriedly — and quietly — bury the bodies! Lastly in the round, any cards (accomplices) in each player's hand must be paid 1F each. After the guest deck has been depleted the second time, players take a final round, then tally their francs. The player with the most money wins!

The winner is the best collector of Marvel Comic books in this card drafting game. During the game players cycle through several different types of drafting and the person who can assemble the best collection, and pay for it, is the winner!

From BGG: ... (view more/less)

After a long search in several comic bookstores and online stores, you managed to acquire the most important comic books of all your favorite heroes. Well, almost all of them! Some rare and important editions are still missing from your collection. The first appearance of your favorite villain, that special edition that influenced a generation of story lines, the spectacular debut of the new uniform, the memorable confrontation with the archenemy and the valuable number one! You already know where to find them and you also know that you are not the only one in search of these precious gems. Will you be able to collect all the comics needed to be recognized as the greatest collector of all time?

Comic Hunters is divided into three rounds. In each round, players will visit three of the four locations where they can purchase Comic Book Cards. At the end of the round, players must place cards on the table to start or expand their collections. When adding a comic to a hero's collection, the player will move his markers on the icon tracks according to the Spotlight Icons of the new card in play (Number 1, First Appearance, New Visual, Special Edition and Memorable Clashes.). The further the player advances on each track, the more points he or she may get. In addition, each collection scores based on the number of cards it contains. After three rounds the player with most points is acclaimed as the greatest comic book collector of all time and wins the game!

Mature Themes

Sedition Wars is a tense, asymmetric sci-fi game that plays out like an instalment of Resident Evil. It pits the nano-virus powered alien Strain against the tac-network linked human Vanguard. Some Strain creatures can be created from deceased humans, or even evolve into more deadly forms. From Board Game Geek, "Survival horror at its finest, game play is fast and bloody, creating urgency and claustrophobic terror as the Vanguard fight for their lives against an unrelenting Strain." Sadly, the game is long OOP. In this scenario, some Vanguard survivors are trying to make it to a platform to catch a last train to a safer part of the space station Alabaster. The Strain stand in the way. Can the Vanguard avoid death or infection? All painted miniatures provided.

A classic Reiner Knizia closed economy auction game. Assemble the best crew in Hollywood and make the greatest movies of the age! And maybe one or two AWFUL ones.

From BGG:Reiner Knizia's auction game about producing movies. In four rounds, players bid on chips representing genuine directors, actors, camera, effects, music, guest stars and agents. These all get placed on players' film-strips to complete the movie production. So one movie might need 2 actors, but no music or effects and so on. As films are completed, the points value is marked and another film-strip taken. There are two parties each round where players get to pick from offers without paying anything. There are bonus points for first films completed and best films, best directors, even worst film.

The auction is a basic rising offer with passing until one winning bid remains. Players pay into the pot with contracts, and the rest of the players share the pot each turn. So it's a closed economy with players trying to time to bid on what they really need to complete films.

Family Friendly

At your turn, you must play one card, or draw one if you can't. A card can be played if at least one of the pirates depicted on it is also on the top card of the play area. As soon as a player has no more card in her hand, she wins the round and gets a part of the treasure map. If a player has all 4 map parts, he wins the game! The tricky part come from the Adventure tiles; there are 40 different tiles with a lot of different rules that will change the gameplay.

Fri 10:30-11:25pm	Rebirth 😊	Boardgame	Full	G44	Daniel Maciel

Family Friendly

Rebirth is a new tile-laying game from Reiner Knizia. The game revitalizes this classic genre by combining Knizia's elegant mechanics with Mighty Boards' evocative world building. The result is a eurogame with smooth gameplay, set in a lush and hopeful future.

Each turn, players draw a tile from their supply and place it strategically on the board. These tiles represent your clan's contribution to rebuilding the land. Rebirth rewards strategic foresight and clever tactical play, with tougher decisions emerging over the course of the game.

Zoo Vadis 😊

Boardgame

G05

Bradley Smith

Family Friendly

You can't win without the help of your opponents. Bribe, barter, and beg your way to the top in this Reiner Knizia negotiation game. All players will have unique player powers ... that they cannot use for themselves. They can only trade them away to the highest bidder in an attempt to raise their own status. Don't blink, the end game comes faster than you think.

From BGG:

What if the animals were the ones who ran the zoo?

... Presumably, this wild government would be built upon the support of fellow creatures and fueled by the fame, attention, and prestige of wide-eyed visitors. Naturally, the most aspirational beasts would lobby for a position in the star exhibit, and the lead star would be elected Zoo Mascot.

In order to join the star exhibit, each species must campaign its way up the hierarchy of enclosures with the majority support of animal voters. And the lead star will be the species that has earned the most laurels from both raving fans and jealous rivals along the way.

How does one gain support and earn laurels? Through crafty politicking, clever negotiations, and ruthless schemes. There can only be one Zoo Mascot, after all.

Where are you going? That is the ultimate question of Zoo Vadis.

Zoo Vadis is an evolution of Reiner Knizia's classic negotiation game, Quo Vadis? It retains the elegant, political gameplay that fans have come to love while introducing many innovations and improvements by:

Enhancing the 3-player game and tailoring the board to all player counts through neutral, bribable figures—roaming peacocks

Widening the player count with a second game board for 6-7 players

Expanding the possibilities for strategic negotiation with asymmetric animal abilities

Increasing tactical opportunities with new special laurel tokens

Broadening the appeal of the theme and presentation with vibrant zoo art by Kwanchai Moriya and Brigette Indelicato

Enlivening the production with chunky animal figures and functional player screens

Like the original design, the game ends immediately when the Star Exhibit is full. Only the animals who have reached the Star Exhibit qualify for victory, and the winner is the player with the most laurels.

Family Friendly From the award-winning game designer Reiner Knizia comes a game of strategy, patience, and cool plastic camels! The desert is still treacherous, mysterious, and without mercy. But for those willing to risk the dangers of the shifting, sun-baked sands, the desert holds riches beyond compare. In Through the Desert, two to five players each control a tribe of nomads vying for control of the desert. By establishing caravans and taking over oases, the players gain points as their tribes increase in power. Strategy is essential in deciding how and where to build your tribe's caravans. There are multiple ways to gain points and several ways to win. Should you try to build the longest caravan? Or should you dominate the desert's oases? Don't forget to keep an eye on your opponents' caravans, or you may find your own tribe cut off from

Darryl

Family Friendly

In Who Would Win? two players each draw one character card, then turn up an event card. Each player then has 20 seconds to argue why his character would win whatever event is presented. Why would Albert Einstein beat Darth Vader at gardening? Could Lassie beat Mark Twain in a singing contest? You tell me! The other players serve as the jury and vote on which player had the better argument; that player receives the event card. The first player to win five event cards wins the game.

Arena of Blood is a different kind of miniatures game from Wiley Games. Playing card activation, with modifiers to who swings a blow first. Your gladiator's 4 skills add abilities, armour, extra dice, and re-rolls. These are also your hit points; you lose skills as you are wounded. Different gladiator types are represented, plus some other creatures. Can you face a bear? NO measurement of movement, or of firing range if you have a bow or javelins. You move where you will as part of the activation; the fighting area is so limited you get right to bashing about. (It's been 28 years since the first time I was introduced to a game that had no measurement - the excellent Crossfire, by Arty Conliffe). Fast play with very cinematic outcomes. All painted miniatures provided.

Family Friendly

Prelude expansion included In the 2400s, mankind begins to terraform the planet Mars. Giant corporations, sponsored by the World Government on Earth, initiate huge projects to raise the temperature, the oxygen level, and the ocean coverage until the environment is habitable. In Terraforming Mars, you play one of those corporations and work together in the terraforming process, but compete for getting victory points that are awarded not only for your contribution to the terraforming, but also for advancing human infrastructure throughout the solar system, and doing other commendable things. As a player, you acquire unique project cards (from over two hundred different ones) by buying them to your hand. The cards can give you immediate bonuses, as well as increasing your production of different resources. Many cards also have requirements and they become playable when the temperature, oxygen, or ocean coverage increases enough. Buying cards is costly, so there is a balance between buying cards and actually playing them. Standard Projects are always available to complement your hand of cards. Your basic income, as well as your basic score, are based on your Terraform Rating. However, your income is boosted by your production, and VPs are also gained from many other sources. When the three global parameters (temperature, oxygen, ocean) have all reached their required levels, the terraforming is complete, and the game ends after that generation. Combine your Terraform Rating and other VPs to determine the winning corporation!

Sat 6:30-8:25pm	The Fox Experiment 😊	Boardgame	Full	G33	Dora

Family Friendly

In The Fox Experiment, you'll breed your own domesticated foxes. In each round you'll select a pair of fox parents who have certain traits. You'll gain those specific trait dice, roll them, then try to move them around to make complete trait symbols which you'll then mark off on your pup card. You'll then gain trait tokens depending on how many traits you marked off which you'll use to upgrade tracks on your personal player board. At the end of the round, the previous generation of foxes will be cleared and all of the new pups will be moved to the kennel — thus becoming candidates to be chosen as parents in the next round. The game ends after 5 rounds and you'll gain points for pleasing patrons (end of game scoring bonuses), studies completed (personal player objectives), if you ever won the friendliest fox award, upgrades on your personal player board, and extra tokens. The player with the most points wins!

Sat 7:30-9:25pm	Stone Age 😊	Boardgame	Full	G06	Darryl

Family Friendly

The "Stone Age" times were hard indeed. In their roles as hunters, collectors, farmers, and tool makers, our ancestors worked with their legs and backs straining against wooden plows in the stony earth. Of course, progress did not stop with the wooden plow. People always searched for better tools and more productive plants to make their work more effective. In Stone Age, the players live in this time, just as our ancestors did. They collect wood, break stone and wash their gold from the river. They trade freely, expand their village and so achieve new levels of civilization. With a balance of luck and planning, the players compete for food in this pre-historic time. Players use up to ten tribe members each in three phases. In the first phase, players take turns placing their tribe members in regions of the board that they think will benefit them, including the hunt, the trading center, or the quarry. In the second phase, each player activates each of their staffed areas in whatever sequence they choose, in turn order. In the third phase, players must have enough food available to feed their populations, or they face losing resources or points.

Sat 9:30-11:25pm	Blood on the Clocktower (18+)	Other	Full	SH6	Bradley Smith
Mature Themes Welcome to Ravenswood Bluff, the sleepy town where this hit social deduction game is set. Surely the town won't kill each other to find a demon ... again. New players are welcome (and I will facilitate your enjoyment as much as reasonable) but be warned, we will be playing the more advanced "Sects & Violets" script so the metaphorical bowling bumpers are off.

From BGG:

In the quiet village of Ravenswood Bluff, a demon walks amongst you. During a hellish thunderstorm, on the stroke of midnight, there echoes a bone-chilling scream. The townsfolk rush to investigate and find the town storyteller murdered, their body impaled on the hands of the clocktower, blood dripping onto the cobblestones below. A Demon is on the loose, murdering by night and disguised in human form by day. Some have scraps of information. Others have abilities that fight the evil or protect the innocent. But the Demon and its evil minions are spreading lies to confuse and breed suspicion. Will the good townsfolk put the puzzle together in time to execute the true demon and save themselves? Or will evil overrun this once peaceful village?

Blood on the Clocktower is a bluffing game with players on opposing teams of Good and Evil, overseen by a Storyteller player who conducts the action and makes crucial decisions. The goal of the game is to successfully deduce and execute the demons before they outnumber the townfolk.

During a 'day' phase players socialize openly and whisper privately to trade knowledge or spread lies, culminating in a player's execution if a majority suspects them of being Evil. During a 'night' time, players close their eyes and are woken one at a time by the Storyteller to gather information, spread mischief, or kill.

The Storyteller uses the game's intricate playing pieces to guide each game, leaving others free to play without a table or board. Players stay in the thick of the action to the very end even if their characters are killed, haunting Ravenswood Bluff as ghosts trying to win from beyond the grave. If you arrive late to a game, you can enter after it's started as a powerful Traveller character with unusual talents and questionable allegiances. Each character comes with their own special ability and no two players in a game are ever the same character.

Sat 9:30-12:25am	Fury of Dracula (18+)	Boardgame	3 available	G06	Darryl
Mature Themes In Fury of Dracula, a game of Gothic adventure, one player takes the role of Dracula while up to four others attempt to stop him by controlling Vampire hunters from the famous Bram Stoker novel. Dracula has returned, and is determined to control all of Europe by creating an undead empire of Vampires. Dracula uses a deck of location cards to secretly travel through Europe, leaving a trail of encounters and events for the hunters that chase him. Meanwhile, the hunters attempt to track and destroy Dracula using the limited information available to them - a task easier said than done when their prey has the power to change forms into a wolf or bat, and can even melt away into the mist when confronted. To save Europe and rid the world of Dracula's foul plague, the hunters must destroy Dracula before he earns enough victory points to win the game... will they have enough wit and bravery to defeat the dark count?

Local Designer &amp; Family Friendly This is a level 6 adventure for 3-6 players that is compatible with 5e. For centuries the ruined Irontusk Fortress of the Sunset Mountains has been a source of mystery, its history long lost to time. ... (view more/less) ✓ Locals from neighbouring towns claim it was once home to a vicious clan that trapped their victims robbing them of their sanity, if not their lives. The stories claim that a vast hoard is hidden away deep within its halls, waiting for those courageous enough to take it. Many have braved the dangerous trek, some to unveil its secrets, some for money, some for glory only, to never be seen again. No one knows how, or where these stories originated but the call for adventure continues to draw many to its mournful halls to this day. It falls to you, brave Adventurer, to gird yourself against what dangers lie within its walls, to explore its hidden pasts and claim your prize. ---The Wailing Halls is a 6th level module by DM Lytha for 3-6 players and should take around 3 hours to complete. Please create a level 6 character, using Point buy or Standard array for skills and Max HP for level 1. You will then get the average for the remaining levels. Starting equipment + 1 uncommon magic item + 200g for non-magical equipment or healing potions. Everything from Wizards of the Coast 2014 is allowed for character creation. Sun 1:30-4:25pm	Cosmic Encounter 😊	Boardgame	3 available	G25	Kyle Tichon
Family Friendly In Cosmic Encounter, each player becomes the leader of one of dozens of alien races, each with its own unique power. On a player's turn, he or she becomes the offense. The offense encounters another player on a planet by moving a group of his or her ships through the hyperspace gate to that planet. Both sides can invite allies and play cards to try and tip the encounter in their favor. The object of the game is for players to establish colonies in other players' planetary systems by landing their ships on the other players' planets. The winner(s) are the first player(s) to have five colonies on planets outside his or her home system. The players must use force, cunning, and diplomacy to ensure their victory. And, because alliances are a key part of the game, multiple players can win together!

Sun 2:30-4:25pm	Learn Altered TCG 😊	Cardgame	Drop-In	G53	Michael Beck

Family Friendly

Beginner-friendly decks to learn the game are provided.

Altered is a fantastic trading card game that breaks a lot of rules of traditional TCGs in the best ways.

- * The theme is not combat-oriented, but exploration-based.

- * Decks have strict rarity caps, making them affordable even at very high levels. * The game is "phygital" meaning your digital and physical collection are the same and there exists a Print on Demand service to print the cards you own as often as you like.

- * Draft and Multiplayer are as excellent as the normal 1v1 constructed game mode.

- * But its starkest contrast might be the existence of the "unique" rarity. These cards exist only once in the whole

Sun 2:30-4:25pm	Thunder Road: Vendetta Carnival of Chaos 😊	Boardgame	Full	SH5	Kyle Skayma
Family Friendly Carnival of Chaos is an expansion for Thunder Road: Vendetta. Between the 8th and 11th centuries, the Vikings had the world holding their breath. ... (view more/less)

Always on the lookout for new land, they aren't above fighting their own countrymen. In this game, two clan leaders fight each other, using the right tactics, for a fruitful plot of land along Norway's coast. They quickly build up villages at strategic locations and fight with anything they can to ensure the larger portion of the region for their clan. Fjords: the tactical battle for the best land!

Please note, Game-itoba is a volunteer event and of course things do come up, games may be rescheduled or cancelled at short notice, we will try to notify you by email should that be the case but it may not be possible.
